Tunecore Launches New Upgrades, Feature Sets And Improvements; The Revolution Continues

TuneCore founder Jeff Price has unveiled a series of major upgrades, feature sets and improvements to the world's largest digital music distributor. All of the details are available in a recent article posted to the TuneCore blog: <http://bit.ly/giengl>

The highlights are:

- *Upgraded royalty accounting system
- *Upload up to 100 songs simultaneously, with playback
- *Unlimited songs per album to unlimited stores for flat fee ($49.99 for album, $9.99 for single)
- *25 streaming multi-media players per account
- *Exclusive artist iTunes Ping account
- *Unlimited iTunes trending reports
- *Expanding collection of songwriter's and artists' money

For an in-depth explanation read "Adapting To The New Music Industry" on the TuneCore blog: <http://bit.ly/giengl>

The article also states that music sales by unit are up in 2010 and that TuneCore artists have sold over 300 million units generating over $150 million in gross music sales over the past 28 months alone. Most of these TuneCore Artists are also the songwriter, the publishing company, and the performer earning them over $100 million more in additional revenue from of each of these additional income streams.

The TuneCore blog will be updated on Monday with a video that highlights the new accounting system, and be sure to tune in to the TuneCore town hall event on ustream at 1:30PM Eastern Time here:

About TuneCore:

TuneCore is the largest distributor and has one of the highest revenue-generating music catalogs in the world: In the past two and a half years TuneCore Artists have sold over 300 million songs via paid download or stream, grossing over $130 million dollars in gross music sales and another $100 million in songwriter revenue.

TuneCore is a low, flat fee service that distributes music to iTunes, eMusic, AmazonMP3, Nokia and many other major download and streaming sites while taking no rights and no revenue from the sale of the music. Artists are building careers, selling significant volumes of music and generating revenue through TuneCore. Since its launch in 2006, TuneCore has distributed tens of thousands of albums and millions of songs to iTunes and other digital stores by Grammy winners and unsigned artists alike. TuneCore artists include Drake, Beck, Jay-Z, Aretha Franklin, Keith Richards, Public Enemy, Nine Inch Nails, Ricky Skaggs, Paul Westerberg, MGM Studios, Warren G, Bjork, Moby, High School Musical cast members, Ali Lohan, Cirque Du Soleil, Starbucks and tens of thousands more.
